

The Bay Area Teacher Development Collaborative

Program Registration

■ Program: Sustainability and Ecoliteracy Fellows 2008-2009

As part of the Collaborative's commitment to providing support for on-going inquiry and learning in community, a Fellows Program will be available to all Collaborative members during this academic year. While the Fellows Programs are designed to build upon the Summer Institute, participation in it is not a prerequisite. Everyone is welcome.

Participation in the Fellows program involves a commitment of four academic days during the school year for in-depth conversation and study. On these days Fellows can expect the presentation of new material, often featuring return visits from leaders of the summer institute or other experts, as well as personalized assistance in moving forward with their own projects. By working together, fellows learn more from one another, have access to experts in this field, and are able to create the time and structure for their own learning and projects.

Carolie Sly, education program specialist at the Center for Ecoliteracy, will be the facilitator for this group.
