

The Bay Area Teacher Development Collaborative

From Carrots to Curriculum

How to create and maintain a school garden and connect it to the curriculum.

A panel of speakers with experience in these areas will lead a discussion on a variety of related subjects. This workshop is of interest both to schools that already have a garden program and to those that would like to establish one, even if their space is limited.

Topics covered will include oversight needs, space constraints, funding, and faculty involvement; special attention will be given to connecting the garden with the curriculum. Our panelists will be: Karen Coleric and Mary Rossi, Park Day School; and Simon Hurd, The Berkeley School.

This workshop is appropriate for teachers and administrators in grades K-8.

DATE: Tuesday, October 19, 2010

TIME: 8:45 - noon

PLACE: The Berkeley School, 1310 University Ave, Berkeley, 94702

COST: $55 for Collaborative members ($45 each for 3 or more)
$70 for non-members ($60 each for 3 or more)

Everyone is welcome! Checks can be mailed in advance or brought to the event.

The mailing address is: BATDC, 35 Keyes Ave., San Francisco, CA 94129

Please direct questions to Janet McGarvey at mccgarvey@batdc.org

The Bay Area Teacher Development Collaborative

From Carrots to Curriculum

How to create and maintain a school garden and connect it to the curriculum.

Tuesday, October 19, 2010
The Berkeley School

REGISTRATION

Count us in! We would like to register the following participants in the “Carrots to Curriculum” workshop:

Name of School:

---

Participants:

Name

Job title

Email Address

---

---

---

Please return this form electronically or by mail to BATDC, 35 Keyes Ave., San Francisco, CA 94129